Baytown, TX

OTR

This regional truck driver position with Moore Power Trucking LLC offers a pay range of $1,300 - $1,600 weekly, with daily earnings of $260. The role involves shuttling freight between Westlake, LA, and Baytown, TX, with a consistent lane and 100% no-touch freight, including preload, live load/unload, and drop & hook. Drivers are home on weekends, and the company provides automatic trucks that are relatively new, averaging 1.5 years old. Orientation pay of $300 is offered upon hiring, along with health, dental, and vision insurance, a 401(k) with company match, and opportunities for career growth. However, the position requires 6 months of experience with tractor trailers, which may limit accessibility for new CDL holders. Interested candidates should be prepared for a brief interview and provide details about their trucking school and any driving violations.

Technician-Driver

Possible Fit

Freeze Tech

Channelview, TX

The Technician-Driver position at Freeze Tech involves performing freeze plugging with liquid nitrogen in commercial buildings and on pipeline projects, primarily in the Houston area and occasionally out of state. While the job includes driving, it is not solely a driving position, and applicants should be prepared for a variety of tasks. Pay ranges from $17 to $29 per hour, with additional per diem when applicable, based on driving and commercial experience. The company provides in-house training, which is beneficial for new hires. Candidates must submit to random drug screens and maintain a clean driving record and background. While current CDL holders are encouraged to apply, experience in the pipeline industry, including TWIC and Contractor Safety Council training, is considered a plus, making this position somewhat less ideal for those without such experience.
